CAMP FIRE OF OLD SOLDIERS IS VERY ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

THE LARGEST GATHERING OF VETERANS EVER HELD IN CITY

FEASTING, SINGING AND SPEAKING MADE PLEASANT TIME FOR MEN WHO WORE THE BLUE AND THE GRAY.

The camp fire of the United Veterans of the Blue and the Gray held at the Elks club on Volusia avenue Thursday evening was a big success from every view point, the veterans, 115 in number, furnishing an inspiring sight as they seated themselves at the tables in the banquet hall for the sumptuous repast prepared for them.

Even the most optimistic would not have imagined at the start of the fire meeting held Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12, that so many of the soldiers of '61 are in and about the city, and the fact seems all the more remarkable when it is considered that not one came especially for the purpose of meeting, but just happened to be here.

When Capt. Geo. Brown gave the command for the men to assemble in the sumptuous hall there answered to the call veterans from 40 states, all coming from Port Orange just to be present and among that number being one blind survivor from the 4th Maine battery. Among the assembled were four ex-stationary generals, seven ex-supreme court judges, an ex-governor, ex-Senator Sessions of Massachusetts, several ex-mayors, and Col. Sherman of Boston, for 24 years a supreme court judge in Massachusetts. From Hanover, N. H., came still another Sherman, a man who for 41 years was a professor of mathematics at Dartmouth college.

Col. Sherman called the meeting to order at 7:30 o'clock after the banquet of many good things had been well taken care of and while all were quietly seated at the tables. After a few brief remarks upon the purpose of the gathering, and of the choice of the 180th anniversary of the birth of George Washington as a most fitting day to hold a camp fire, Col. Sherman introduced Geo. F. Crouch, who, as secretary of the local lodge of Elks, welcomed the veterans, and with a few well chosen remarks made the old soldiers feel at home to what many of them was a first visit to the handsome new Elks home.

After Mr. Crouch, Col. Sherman spoke of how the Elks had quietly come forward with the kind offer of the use of the home for the camp fire at the time when the veterans were in dire distress because of the lack of a suitable place and money, and spoke of the difference in the way kindly acts are done the country over by the Elks, and of the little praise ever given or publicity desired by the Elks. Col. Sherman asked those present to stand, and three rousing cheers were given the Elks. Col. Cantine of New York, spokesman of the evening, was then introduced.

Before the speech making was to commence some music was suggested, and it seems a delightful coincidence that the pianist, D. N. Hood, should first of all strike up on the strains of "Dixie." J. M. Henry of Leamington, Ontario, a session guest at the Prince George, where he has often entertained the gossips, was the soloist of the evening and the veterans joined in on the choruses with a hearty vim.

Drugs Nevin McClellan of the local company, Co. K, 2nd Inf., Florida state troops, was present, together with Capt. Louis Cowan, and as each speaker was called upon, the notes of the bugle sounded a welcome.

Ex-Mayor H. F. Snyder of Albany, N. Y., was next called upon and he touched mainly upon the fact that today there is no south, no north, no east, and no west, just one great, grand country, respected the world over and fearful of none, a country that rose from the ruins of the Civil war, as do the great mountain peaks of the west rise out of a dam distance as the traveler for the first time visits that part of the great United States. He spoke about the feeling one has when returning to this shore after a trip in other countries, and also of his sentiment in favor of not fortifying the Panama canal, it being his opinion that when the great work is finished just the slender flag staff at either entrance, flying the stars and stripes, would be sufficient protection against any country or alliance of countries. In closing Mr. Snyder touched upon the disaster that befell the gallant battleship Maine, and of the fact that in his mind the brave men who lost their lives by that treacherous act upon the part of Spain, were sacrificed for a great good, for that war, costing many lives as it did, did what nothing else would have done, and that was to cement the north and south in a friendship and love in a desire as one great body to work and fight for the United States, side by side, making this the greatest of all nations.

Col. Cantine next introduced Col. Urban A. Woodbury of Vermont, and Col. Woodbury was followed by J. M. Henry in recitations, Rev. Mr. Rawnsley, Rev. D. H. Rutter, Judge Sherman, Col. Russell, Col. Sherwood, and Col. Huston of this city, who spoke in a delightful way on the behalf of the Gray, of which the great armies of veterans he has been a prominent worker in the united movement. Col. Cantine made some remarks, and several other songs were sung during the session, among these selections being "The Star Spangled Banner," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Black Joe," and "America."

In response to invitation, at 10 o'clock the veterans lined up, and to the music of the bugle the march was taken up to the residence of C. G. Burgoine on North Beach street, and here a delightful time was spent, while Mr. Burgoine, who, when approached recently by a veteran who desired to sell him a ticket to the camp fire, quickly responded with the price of 100 tickets, which donation was added to the banquet fund, entertained with music and refreshments. At a late hour, as a fitting close to an evening that will never be forgotten by those so fortunate as to be present, the United Veterans of the Blue and the Gray gave Mr. Burgoine three ear splitting cheers and a tiger, and with broken ranks the start was made for their homes about the city.

The meeting of the veterans had been a big success, and to the Elks, Rev. D. H. Rutter of the First Methodist church, and the committee of arrangements, of which Col. Sherman is chairman, and of which the members are Capt. Geo. Brown, Col. Russell, Frank D. Spring, Lieut. F. H. Houghton, Col. T. Fred Brown, and Col. A. T. Bigelow, and also to Rev. Mr. Gammell, great credit is due for the success.

MOUNTAIN ASH MALE CHOIR MAKES HIT IN JACKSONVILLE

CONCERT RENDERED AT DUVAL
THEATER ONE OF THE BEST EVER HEARD IN THE METROPOLIS OF FLORIDA.

The Mountain Ash Male Choir, which is billed to give a concert at the New Daytona theater tomorrow evening, recently appeared at the Duval theater in Jacksonville and the concert given there was considered one of the best ever heard in the Florida metropolis, as the following from the Jacksonville Metropolis of February 17 will attest:

The Mountain Ash Male Choir is unquestionably a remarkable musical organization, individually and collectively, and under the leadership of T. Glyndwr Richards, produces musical effects of the voice that suggest to the hearers, with marvelous vividness and beauty, the dim and flowing liquidness of the river's depths, a sunrise over the mountain's tops, the murmurous stillness of a forest, the weird rumbling of an approaching storm and the mountain torrent, and the weaving of rainbows of repose. This choir seems to find music in the ocean, and in the air, and is capable of musical rejoicing or grieving in nature's own number. It leaves in the minds of the audience the sweet sounds of its serenade, and music may bring in any phase of human life.

A leading characteristic of the Mountain Ash Choir's singing is absolute appropriateness to all selections rendered. It appears in the sound of the dirge, as an earth-saddened song to souls on the verge of eternity. The innocent babe is soothed into slumber, and it charms the way-worn and weary to rest.

In addition to the high classical numbers "Dixie," "Old Black Joe," and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," were sung in style never before heard in Jacksonville, and the fact that these Welsh singers can master our own home pieces and sing them much better than the majority of our American choruses, speaks volumes in their behalf.

AMONG COTTON MILL WORKERS
SAYS LABOR BUREAU REPORT

DECLARED THE FEDERAL PRISONERS AT ATLANTA ARE BETTER FED THAN MOST OF THE COTTON WORKERS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—A report issued today by the bureau of labor reveals pathetic conditions among the cotton mill workers, the conditions bordering almost on the tragic. The report is the result of an investigation by government agents into the poverty of the workers of the various plants. It was learned that in many instances father, mother and children all work in the mills and make barely enough to exist.

Disease and death are decimating the workers. There was found an almost entire absence of expenditures for alcohol's stimulants. The report declares the prisoners in the Federal prison at Atlanta are better fed than the majority of the mill families of the south.

The costume skating carnival at the Arcade Amusement hall Thursday night in celebration of Washington's birthday, was a great success in all respects. The first ladies' prize, a pair of skates, was awarded to Miss Ruby Sullivan, who appeared as Martha Washington. The second ladies' prize, a box of fine chocolates, was given to Miss Daffin. The first gentlemen's prize, a pair of skates, was secured by S. A. Wells of Daytona Beach, while the second prize, a box of cigars, went to Harry Reese, also of Daytona Beach.

It was brought out during taking of testimony that the Virginia and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad has collected a rate on furnace coke from the coal fields of Page, Virginia, to St. Louis, of $2.90 per ton. This, it was claimed by attorneys representing the company, was a discrimination and overcharge by the railroads of from 30 to 50 cents per ton, as compared to the rates in Indiana and Ohio.

Leonard W. Lott of Fairwood, N.
J., has become a property holder in Seabreeze. Within the past few days
Mr. Lott has closed a deal with E.
A. Branch for two beach lots in the Branch-Shoemaker subdivision, located on the beach south of the E. L.
Gunn property. Mr. Lott bought with a view to making this city his winter home, and L. Z. Burdick is drawing plans and specifications for a bungalow home on the property purchased.—It is understood that Mr. Lott is negotiating for a third lot, one adjoining the two purchased.
Mr. and Mrs. Lott and boy are spending their second winter at Seaside Lodge, and have many friends in the community, who are glad to have them interested in the upbuilding of our City Beautiful.

Miss Young of Tampa is guest of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Farrell at their home on Halifax avenue. Miss Young arrived Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Farrell met her in New Smyrna with their car.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carow and Mrs. Carow's sister-in-law, Mrs. Harvey
Jones, who arrived from St.

Cuba, expecting to be gone a week or two. Mr. and Mrs. Carow are spending the winter on Ocean boulevard.

Mesdames T. F. Cordis and Mrs.
T. Edward Cordis entertained Friday afternoon at bridge and five hundred.
There were three tables of bridge and one of five hundred. The prizes were especially beautiful—an antique jardiniere, and a cut glass bowl and pitcher. Mrs. Uebelhoer won first prize and Miss Young of Tampa, second prize. Elaborate refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Davis of Philadelphia, guests of the Clarendon, have taken the Stone cottage on Atlantic

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Pratt and daughter, Miss Marjorie, arrived on Monday night from Chicago, Ill., on a visit to Mrs. H. L. Kochersperger.
Mrs. Pratt and Mrs. Kochersperger are sisters. Mrs. T. B. Gregory of Brooklyn, N. Y., another sister of Mrs. Kochersperger, arrived Tuesday night and is with Mrs. Kochersperger at Cherokee cottage.

Mrs. George H. Shoots entertained at a thimble party Wednesday afternoon at her home on Valley street.
Twenty-seven invitations were issued and the ladies enjoyed a genuine tote-tote sewing bee. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. Ruby has taken apartments with Mrs. Florence Johnson on Halifax avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Stone of Waverly, Pa., have secured apartments at the C. P. Poor residence on Pinewood avenue. Mr. Stone is an inventor, having secured a patent for a drinking cup made of aluminum and celluloid. The cup is very elegant and daintily designed and will make a good traveling accessory.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Weaver have moved into their new apartment
house on Grandview avenue, and Mr.
and Mrs. Stevens of Georgetown, O., have taken their rooms at Weaver Inn.

Edward Russell arrived Monday night from Brooklyn, N. Y., in an answer to a summons to the bedside of his father, Henry Russell.

Mrs. Henderson, aunt of the representative Alice, laughed. "Why don't you let Alice do as she pleases?" she inquired.

Mrs. Clinton frowned. "Now, I suppose you're going to take her part,"
she said. "But it isn't a particle of use. She's the only daughter I have, so this is the only wedding I shall ever have in my own family, and I am determined to get some fun out of
it. You won't believe me," harking back to her grievance, "but the other day when I asked her if she'd like to have you go with us to select her wedding gown she looked more interested than I'd seen her for weeks. That would be lovely," she said. "But do you think there's any necessity for my going? Why don't you and Aunt Florence go by yourselves? I could have spanked her."

A few days later, as they left the stationer's shop, after ordering the invitations and announcements, with Alice presumably somewhere in their rear, Mrs. Clinton said in a tone of satisfaction to Mrs. Henderson: "Now we can devote the rest of the morning
to the wedding gown.

"Show us some of your bridal satin, please," she said to the clerk a few minutes later. "That's an exquisite piece," she continued, as he held up the soft, shimmering fabric which fell in graceful folds over his arm.

"It is beautiful, isn't it?" said Mrs.
Henderson. "And it certainly is reasonable. I doubt if you could do any better."

"It is pretty," said Mrs. Clinton reflectively, "but, of course, I'm not going to take the first thing I see."

The clerk displayed bolt after bolt of material and was rewarded at the end of his labors by hearing Mrs.
Clinton say: "Thank you very much.
Now we'll go and look at some of the lighter materials."

"I haven't quite decided what the bridesmaids ought to wear," she remarked a short time after, as she and her sister examined piles of soft, delicate chiffons and fairylke silk muslins. "If they wear chiffon, I don't want Alice to, of course, and I think champagne chiffon or veiling over messaline would be lovely for the maids, but I intend to decide positively before anything is said to them."
"Now, we'll go to Blank's and look,"
she said complacently, when they had examined every possible material in the first shop. "I'm going to see everything before I decide."

Some time later, after they had visited every possible depository of wedding gown material and had examined so many things that they could hardly have distinguished broads from cheesecloth, with tired faces and disheveled locks, they returned to the first shop and bought the piece of satin which they had first looked at. When it had been cut off Mrs. Clinton heaved
a sigh of relief.

"Now," she said, "Alice, you must go right up to madame's and let her take your measurements. There's no time to be wasted, for dressmakers are so provokingly slow."

She paused a moment, but, receiving no response, she inquired: "Don't you think it's lovely, child?"

There was still no answer. Turning, she found that she had been addressing the empty air. There was no Alice anywhere near. She looked at Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Henderson looked at her. Then the two gasped in unison. Alice was distinctly not present.

Fervishly they retraced their steps
as nearly as possible to every shop and every counter in every shop which they had visited. Neither of them could remember when they had last seen the prospective bride.

Finally, as a last resort, they returned to the bookshop's shop where they had ordered the announcements.
There, tucked up in a corner, so deeply engrossed in her book that she was unaware of their presence until they had stood, speechless, in front of her for several seconds, sat the unregenerate Alice. She greeted them with the sweetest of smiles.

"Did you get the dress?" she asked.
"I knew you didn't really need me, so when I found you were gone I just waited."

BUOY FLOATED SIX YEARS

Belonged to Ship Wrecked Off Japan
and Ocean Currents Carried It to Scotland.

A strange story of the seas and their mysterious currents was told in a letter received by Stanley Dollar,
of this city, from John Gear, at Lerwick, Scotland, inclosing a clipping from the Shetland Times, published at Lerwick.

The item is to the effect that there was picked up on the beach at Cullivo, Papastour, north of Scotland, a life buoy, tattered and stained, bearing the inscription: "Passed by J.
Guthrie, San Francisco, Cal., June 1, 1905."

Capt. Guthrie is an assistant local inspector of steamboats for his district.

The Stanley Dollar was wrecked off
the west coast of Japan in August, 1905, and the buoy must have been floating in the ocean currents until it landed over in Scotland. Whether it went around the Horn or through the Northwest Passage or down by Australia and around the Cape of Good Hope into the Atlantic, is a mystery of seafaring men. The buoy holds the world's record for drifting the longest distance ever known.

Equally marvelous is the fact that it was not found before, but this may be explained by the theory that it floated in parts of the two oceans unfrequented by many vessels.—San Francisco Chronicle.

There seemed to be something vaguely familiar to her about the legs which accommodated their gaudy lengths as best they might to the somewhat cramped space allotted to them, for the pointed toes recurred to them again, and she tried unsuccessfully to obtain a peep at the face which the newspaper hid.

At last her patience was rewarded, for the paper was lowered a trifle, as the hidden reader turned a leaf.

"Oh, Mr. Walp!" cried The Morse, exclaiming, "I thought it was you, but I couldn't tell for such-tatty count of my old newspaper."

"Why, good morning, Katherine," responded the young man with genuine surprise, raising his hat in response to the chilly little bow of The Morse's companion. "You are an early bird this morning."

His attempted retreat into the newspaper was promptly thwarted by The Morse.

"Why don't you turn over here and talk to auntie and me?" she queried wonderingly.

"Don't mind Mr. Gale, Katherine,"

said The Morse, smiling broadly.

"He's over here, Katherine, and let me arrange your hair," interposed auntie hastily. But The Morse hardly heard, in her absorption, and, with a bearded, did not heed.

"Has she, indeed? Where did she come in?"

"In the drawing room last night. And this morning I overheard all would've done but I couldn't find it, nor no-tater." And the yellow head shook disconsolately.

"Perhaps she will find it again," Gale encouraged her.

"I doubt not. She says she can't find it, nor never, and she doesn't look for it."

"Katherine," coaxed auntie, with fanning cheeks, "I think there are some candles in my bag."

But Destiny's diminutive cat-sow was oblivious to even sugary seduction in her disinterested concern for auntie's welfare.

"Perhaps, after all, you didn't look in the right place for it. I know a place where it might be," and Gale whispered something in The Morse's ear.

The Morse gazed at him with round, incredulous eyes, but obediently slipped his hand into a certain inner pocket of his coat. The drew it out with a shrewd delight.

"Auntie! Auntie! I found your twiddle wing!" she cried rapturously.

"No, Katherine, that is Mr. Gale's ring," said auntie with downcast eyes.

The Morse looked dubiously at the ring and then at Gale.

"Perv, did you find it?" she demanded.

"In the drawing room last night," he assured her.

"You'll be your wing, auntie. Here!" and she thrust the ring impetuously toward her nose.

Auntie hesitated. Then slowly she looked up and met Gale's imploring eyes.

"Bridgehaven! Bridgehaven!" roared the matron, setting in a chain of sounds and cinders through the half-opened door.

The Morse suddenly found herself on her feet, and quite neglected for a moment in the general confusion. But her bright eyes held a sunned gleam as she saw Mr. Gale slip the "twiddle wing" on auntie's finger, though her ears did not catch the low "The sorry, Ralph!" "I'm sorry, too, Manice."

"Sould me! Why, what have I done?" in mock terror.

His master summoned all the tactility at her command.

"You made my auntie cry," she said reproachfully. "Oo-oo, auntie, don't pinch my arm so tight."

"Oh, well," Gale laughed. "When ladies think of course there's only one thing to do."

A faint flush in auntie's fair face told that the double entendre was too hot. Gale reversed the seat in front of his friends, and prepared to deposit himself in The Morse. Auntie bit her lip in silent vexation.

"Now, Mr. Walp," began the tiny tea machine. "I am going to wind you."

"Sould me! Why, what have I done?" in mock terror.

His master summoned all the tactility at her command.

"You made my auntie cry," she said reproachfully. "Oo-oo, auntie, don't pinch my arm so tight."

"Oh, well," Gale replied with a surprised glance at auntie's now very pink nose. The Morse nodded reluctantly assent.

"I slept with her last night and she cried and cried a long long time when she thought I was all sleep, and I heard her say 'Walp, Walp'."

"Katherine," exclaimed Auntie in an agony of mingled appeal, regret and accusation. Then hollering to the man: "Mr. Gale, you will make allowances for the other irrelevance in a child's notion of cause and effect."

"I am sure Katherine, and I understand each other perfectly," was the calm reply.

A new expression had dawned in Ralph Gale's gray eyes, but before to something auntie's confusion. He changed the subject.

"Look here, Katherine, who is your best little boy friend?"

"Well, I think—Cawell Hunt."

"Carol Hunt, eh?" "Hey a nice little boy. Do you ever quarrel with him?"

"No, but sometimes he quarrels with me."

Gale retreated with loss, muttering,

Whistler's Sarcasm.

STATIONERS BY EXCLUSIVE CONTRACT

Just before the train started, a tall, thin young woman hurried into the car and presented the last but remaining seat. She was accompanied by a dainty array of girlishness—about four years of age. The young girl had a slight of voice and disproportionately to her size was a voice deposited on the seat by the still young woman.

"We wanted it, didn't we, maids?" she uttered joyously.

"Yes, dear," was the quiet reply of the tall young woman, as she located her hair in preparation for the ride.

The Morse wriggled a little, then settled himself to her lifting, and began leisurely to inspect his fellow passengers. Her bright brown eyes, under the contrasting shade of sunny, deftful hair, shone with interested curiosity from one to another, reading finally on all that was visible below a newspaper of an evidently masculine entry directly across the aisle.

There seemed to be something vaguely familiar to her about the legs which accommodated their gaudy lengths as best they might to the somewhat cramped space allotted to them, for the pointed toes recurred to them again, and she tried unsuccessfully to obtain a peep at the face which the newspaper hid.

At last her patience was rewarded, for the paper was lowered a trifle, as the hidden reader turned a leaf.

EXPRESS TRUCK BLOWN ONTO RAILROAD TRACKS

An incident of the heavy squall of wind that swept the city Wednesday noon was the lifting of one of the Southern Express trucks from the platform to the railroad tracks. C. F. JUST GOSSIP BY THE GOSSIPER.

At the risk of tipping off something the Gossip is going to whisper it softly that there is likely to be some excitement in a certain vicinity in the south section of the city the next time the sneak thieves who have been stealing roses make an appearance and again try their dirty work. So many roses have been stolen from yards in a certain section the proprietors have come to the point where patience ceases to be a virtue and something will drop, spring or burst the next time a sneak thief attempts to appropriate roses from these yards. If you want to hear some loud howling just happen to be around about that time.

INIMMEDIATE DANGER.

Mr. and Mrs. Aschenbrenner were touring Europe, and had just arrived at Pisa. Mrs. Aschenbrenner was all excited upon reaching the Leaning Tower and eagerly pattered up the spiral stairway, leaving her husband languidly awaiting her return.

As she weighed a shade over the 200 mark, her husband always dug up an excuse when it came to accompanying her on any altitudes above easy falling distance.

He was just pondering on the beautiful flow of unintelligible language used by their guide, when from the topmost rampart came the "Hi-lee, Hi-lee" trill from his wife, who was leaning far out and waving a scarf.

Mr. Aschenbrenner obligingly looked up and then came to lie with an anguished roar: "Gretchen, for your life, get back! You're bending the building!"

New Industry for Italy. In Italy a means has been discovered to turn to account the hitherto worthless pipes of the grapes used in wine-making. Oil is now extracted from them on a commercial scale by a process of direct heating with tetrachloride of carbon. The latter is obtained in abundance in Italy in the preparation of electrolytic soda.

Windows in Umbrella. An umbrella with windows is the latest in Paris. The reason given for the innovation is the difficulty of getting about on account of the danger caused by traffic, especially in wet weather.

PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE, Feb. 22.—Rev. J. E. Woodward, pastor of the Methodist church, is engaged in revival services here, and is assisted by Rev. D. H. Coman of Lenoir, N. C., who is doing some very able preaching.

Mrs. Ada Smith and her sister, Miss Lenore Smith, left Saturday for their home in Odebold, Fla.

Rev. Adams of Kingsland was a caller here Monday, attending the services at the Methodist church.

The ladies of the Methodist church reopen their tea room Tuesday and will continue to serve each Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 5, for the remainder of the winter season.

Hon. H. B. Smith of Odebold, Fla., is wearing an extra double smile over his recent success in landing a nine and a half pound sheepshead, the largest caught from the Port Orange bridge. For some weeks Mr. Smith had worn the blue ribbon in the lapel of his coat in honor of having landed the largest bass of the season, which weighed twenty-one pounds, and measured 41 inches in length.

Miss Lena Sparkman and Miss Dorothy Straight went over to De Land last Wednesday to visit Miss Addie VinZant, returning Saturday.

Mrs. McBurnett entertained the members of the Good Times club last week.

Mrs. Price of Charlevoix, Mich., was hostess of the card party last week.

Mr. Straight shipped a large crate of palms to Mr. Scandland, proprietor of the Sun Toy hotel in Demorest, Ga.

Mr. Alfred Tedder has moved back to his home place in the south part of town.

There was a quiet wedding in the Grace church Wednesday last week, when Mr. Shepard and Mrs. Norwood were married. Their many friends wish them a long, happy life.

Mrs. Corey and Mrs. Shaw gave a 6 o'clock dinner to the Five Hundred club Friday evening at the home of Mr. Gessner.

The second cooked food sale in Ridgewood hall Saturday was a very pleasant and successful affair.

Bishop W. Crane Gray will hold divine service in Grace church next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Straight and two daughters left Tuesday for their home in Demorest, Ga., very much pleased with Port Orange.

Dr. Dubois also left Tuesday morning for Jacksonville.

J. E. Crane of Middlebury, Vt., has been visiting J. B. Case. Mr. Crane has long made a specialty of bee keeping and is one of the most prominent members of his chosen vocation—a versatile writer on apian matters, a pleasing lecturer on bees and their habits and state bee inspector for Vermont. Mr. Crane is senior member of the firm of J. E. Crane & Son, the largest honey producers in New England and one of the largest in the United States.

Tuesday a large party, thirty-eight in number, went up the Tomoka river on Perry Williams' launch. The picnic dinner, which was an elaborate affair, was served in one of the pavilions and the day being an ideal Florida day, everybody enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

Mr. J. W. Burnett Jr., is building himself a cozy home on the land in Dunlawton, that he purchased from Mrs. Brokeen.

ANTS ARE SMART GARDENERS

They Are Known to Grow Grain,

Sowing and Harvesting Like

Real Farmers.

Man is not the only animal who has discovered the division of the vegetable world into weeds on the one hand and garden plants on the other. Our ingenious little six-legged workers, the ants, have anticipated us in this, as in so many other useful inventions and discoveries. There are ants in Texas which grow grain, and each nest owns a small claim in the vicinity of its mound on which it cultivates a kind of grass, commonly known as ant rice.

The claim is circular, about ten or twelve feet in diameter, and the ants allow no plant but the ant rice to encroach upon the cleared space anywhere.

The produce of the crop they carefully harvest, though authorities are still disagreed upon the final question whether they plant the grain or merely allow it to sow its own seed on the protected area.

One thing, however, is certain—that no other plant is permitted to sprout on the tabooed patch. The ants wage war on weeds far more vigorously and effectively than our own agriculturists.

Her Preference.

Navajo blankets.

Much unadulterated nonsense has been written concerning the symbol ism of Navajo Indian blankets,

poetry, legend, tradition and history

woven by the squaw into its fabric.

It is true that some designs have a symbolic meaning, but Hopi, Zuni and Apache symbols are used quite as freely as those peculiar to the Navajo.

The Navajo squaw is one of the least imaginative and least poetical

of human beings, and it is quite safe to say that even when symbolic designs are employed in basket weaving

it is without the remotest reference to their true significance.
